

Hopping Media has been a leading creative service in graphic design since 1980. Originally based in Silicon Valley, we were one of the first graphic studios capable of designing, creating graphic assets and programming in HTML. We were brought into web projects for many high-tech companies including Microsoft, Adobe, and Apple as well designing and building consumer websites.

Hopping Media was also at the forefront creating some of the first streaming media online and continues supporting this medium today which reflects our continued attention and use of leading edge technologies for our client messaging and effective results.

We have worked in a broad range of client sizes, types and industries from full-service packages for start-ups up to specialty projects for larger clients including Facebook. We have collaborated with PR firms, advertising agencies, and software developers as creative and content providers.

Hopping Media has studios in Northern New Jersey and Northern Ohio with associates in San Francisco.
